Nowadays, International trading has become more opened, because the reduction of tariff barrier and non-tariff barrier. This situation made a competition between nation become more complex. Many countries use dumping strategic to win the international competition. Dumping actually is a normal strategic in trading world. It's become unfair when it causes injury to domestic industry. Because dumping categorize as Unfair Trade Practices, many countries (members of World Trade Organization/WTO) used anti dumping action to deal with unfair trade practices being carried out by their trading partners.

Researcher's main concern is in imposition of anti dumping duties. To know how anti dumping duties can protect the domestic industries. Researcher also want to analyze the problems on anti dumping actions that levies to some imported goods that causes injury to domestic industries. Whether the decision is to impose or not to impose an anti dumping duty to that imported goods. The researcher used qualitative approach and use descriptive method to analyze this report.

The result of this research showed that anti dumping duties act can protect the domestic industries and make competitive price in domestic market. The problems when anti dumping duty imposed to some product are: complain from the exporting country because the price of the product in domestic market will be more expensive than before. And Complain from the domestic consumers because it makes goods used by the domestic consumers more costly. If the decision is not to imposed the anti dumping duty with the 'national interest' reason it also a problems because there's no clear guidance on national interest test in Indonesian anti dumping legislation. This is why the people said that 'anti dumping is a double edge sword'. But whatever the merits of anti dumping, Indonesia should continue to take their national interest into account before levying these duties.
