

Pengaruh kapasitas kelembagaan pemerintah daerah terhadap pemberdayaan masyarakat miskin di Kabupaten Bekasi

Deskripsi Lengkap: <https://lib.ui.ac.id/detail?id=131750&lokasi=lokal>

Abstrak

Empowerment programs of poor peoples marked with agenda of motivation, facilities public service, and resources which have never missed from government attention since a period of new order government up to a period of reform government placing forward independence of area and peoples empowerment through regional autonomy concept carrying main purpose in public welfare. However, level of poor peoples in Bekasi practically increasing. In this context institutional capacities become less optimally to implements good role in dimensions of system, organization, and individual. Research of this dissertation was done in Bekasi district West Java Province. Target of responden in this research are governor agency and poor peoples. Designs research sampling applied is stratified random sampling. Purpose of this research is find institution capacities influence model of local government seen from from system dimension, organization, and individual. to empowerment of poor peoples in Bekasi District. Analyzer applied to test hypothesis is path analysis. Result of examination with path analysis. Local government institutional capacities which consisted of system, organization, and individual dimension has influenced which significant either in simultan and also parsial toward poor peoples empowerment in Bekasi district. From thirds of institution capacities dimension of local government tested, individual is biggest dimension of its the influence toward poor peoples empowerment in Bekasi District.