Abstrak

The practices of good offices as a mean of peaceful settlement of dispute have been recognized by states and international organizations for ages. The Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) is an international regional organization in the Southeast Asia region, which has a dispute settlement mechanism for its member states through the Treaty of Amity and Cooperation 1976, ASEAN Charter 2007, and Protocol to the ASEAN Charter on Dispute Settlement Mechanisms 2010. Indonesia's implementations of good offices under the ASEAN mechanism as a member state of ASEAN were depicted in the Moro National Liberation Movement Case, Dispute of Spratly Islands, as well as in the Thailand and Cambodia Border Dispute. Despite the fact there have not been many good offices practices within the ASEAN, this method has given significant results due to its implementation upon the previous disputes.
