Abstrak

Basically, all the phenomena and realities that we know the language. Language is a human entity that is able to give meaning and significance. Expression and its use in day-to-day, the language used by men and women sometimes differ. This difference occurs because the sociocultural factors even the biological, so that gender differences can be understood as the natural. In various groups of people with a religious background, ideology, ethnic, geographic, educational, economic background appears to register the language. Individual groups have potential to bring forth or "stylistic" withdrawn, including the style of language between men and women. Thus, the difference between the language of men and women show the existence of multiculturalism, remain in the diversity of similarity in both aspects of any kind, including speaking. Participated in the development of civilization to bring changes in attitude and style of speaking. Women with a style of language that seemed shy, closed, flirty, less confident and has begun to be abandoned. Conversely, women now have intelligent conversation style, open, independent and when they reflected the thoughts and ideas both verbally and written. With the incessant movement of mainstream gender between men and women and the opening access to information, the women now have more confidence in speaking, together with men, so that is difficult to be clear with the style of language used by men and women.
