Abstrak

Several researchers on learning styles and learning strategies had been conducted at Universitas Terbuka (UT). It had found out that students tend to have visual learning style. Different learning styles and learning strategies might be happened in students at each regional office due to the influence of local ethnicity. This article written based on research conducted to determine the tendency of students' learning styles and strategies at the Regional Center (UPBJJ-UT) Medan compared to UT's students learning styles and strategies in general. Comparition was also done between exacta students and non exacta students in the UPBJJ-UT Medan. Data were collected through questionnaire and analyzed with descriptive method. The finding showed that: (1)the students learning styles at the UPBJJ-UT Medan tend to be similar with the students of UT in general, which was visual learning styles (2) there were different learning styles between exacta students and non-exacta students (3) Students' learning strategies at the UPBJJ-UT Medan have not been effective. It was suggested that UPBJJ-UT Medan should help students by developing a handbook or manual of self-learning strategies which could be socialized continously at the New Student Orientation Study (OSMB) and through the web site.
