

Indonesian mining and its place in the economy of the future

Deskripsi Lengkap: <https://lib.ui.ac.id/detail?id=20407230&lokasi=lokal>

Abstrak

Indonesia's mineral and energy industry plays a key role in sustaining Indonesia's export earnings, employment and regional development. The importance of the industry is destined to increase, with development in coal and base metals taking place at this moment or in the very near future. The importance of mining can be measured by its contribution to the GDP, export revenues and government fiscal revenue. The contribution to the GDP is of particular importance.