Mohammad Natsir idea and support from Persatuan Islam in setting up Pendidikan Islam (Pendis) became the focus of this research. Pendis appear as Natsir's effort to improve the education in Hindia Belanda soil, which is at that time has not reach all the Bumiputera people. Most evidence came from historical archieve with four stages, which are heuristic, verification, interpretation, and historiography. This research is an analytical descriptive research.

Research end in a conclusion that Pendis is needed for Bumiputera people whose before can not get a proper education in public school own by government. Persis and Natsir worked together in developing this school until finally closed by Japanist Goverment in 1942.
