[ABSTRAK

Tesis ini menganalisa mengenai dampak pemberlakuan ASEAN-China Free Trade Agreement (ACFTA) terhadap perdagangan sektor tekstil dan produk tekstil (TPT) di Indonesia. Perjanjian ACFTA diberlakukan secara penuh bagi Indonesia pada bulan Januari 2010. Secara keseluruhan, pemberlakuan ACFTA membawa berbagai dampak, baik itu positif maupun negatif. Di sektor TPT sendiri, pemberlakuan ACFTA ini membawa berbagai permasalahan bagi Indonesia. Sektor TPT memainkan peranan penting dalam membangun perekonomian di Indonesia, karena merupakan salah satu sektor yang menjadi penyumbang devisa negara dan membuka lapangan kerja yang besar alias padat karya. Kondisi TPT Indonesia yang sejak awal tidak stabil semakin terpuruk dengan banyaknya pabrik tekstil yang tutup sehingga meningkatkan angka pengangguran. Produsen TPT pun beralih menjadi pedagang sehingga memicu gejala deindustrialisasi. Oleh karena itu, pemerintah Indonesia perlu membuat kebijakan- kebijakan guna melindungi sektor TPT dari dampak pemberlakuan ACFTA. Penelitian yang dilakukan dalam penulisan tesis ini adalah penelitian yuridis normatif untuk memahami penerapan norma-norma hukum terhadap fakta-fakta.

ABSTRACT

This thesis analyzes the impact of the implementation of ASEAN-China Free Trade Agreement (ACFTA) on textiles and apparel products sector in Indonesia. ACFTA Agreement is fully implemented in Indonesia in January 2010. Overall, the implementation of ACFTA brings a variety of impacts, both positive and negative. In TPT sector, the implementation of ACFTA brings a variety of problems for Indonesia. The TPT sector plays an important role in building the economy of Indonesia, because it is one of the sectors that contributes to foreign exchange and opens large employment or labor-intensive. Indonesian TPT condition that is unstable from the beginning is getting worse by the closing of many textile factories, thus increasing the unemployment rate. Textile producers were turning into traders that trigger the symptom of de-industrialization. Therefore, the Government of Indonesia needs to create policies to protect textile and apparel product sector from the impact of the implementation of ACFTA. Research conducted in this thesis is normative juridical research to understand the application of legal norms to the facts., This thesis analyzes the impact of the implementation of ASEAN-China Free Trade Agreement (ACFTA) on textiles and apparel products sector in Indonesia.
