

Fairness : prinsip governance yang terabaikan

Deskripsi Lengkap: <https://lib.ui.ac.id/detail?id=20418716&lokasi=lokal>

Abstrak

Good governance is an important foundation to the attainment of development goals in a transitional democracy such as Indonesia. Good governance as a concept is exercised through its principles. Major institutions attempt to seek ways to put governance in practice have concluded that the principles has often being overlooked despite of its significant contribution to the process of transitional democracy towards consolidated democracy. this article attempts to show the importance of fairness to the attainment of people's welfare. Indicators drew from partnership governance index show that fairness well contributes to he effectiveness of development as well as guarding the transitional democracy towards consolidated democracy. The application of fairness guarantees the people's rights to obtain equal quality of basic services such as helath and education.