Abstrak

Up to now, religious violences in the name of religion still frequently are exhibited in public. Violence also called radicalism is actually the result of several things, such as claims of truth such as claims of truth and being textual in understanding religion. One solution to dilute the relationship between religions is through inter-religious dialogue. In this case, even if it turns out be true, a religion still has religious tolerance with other religions. Therefore religious dialogue makes a major contribution to the future of religious tolerance
