

Decentralization & its discontents: an essay on class, political agency, and national perspective in Indonesian politics

Lane, Max

Deskripsi Lengkap: <https://lib.ui.ac.id/detail?id=20442135&lokasi=lokal>

Abstrak

This essay points to the end of (direct)crony capitalism at the national level and the shift in the possibility of political initiative to the Kabupaten capitalists, and the initiatives can be different or even contradictory among local capitalists. The essay speculates in the negative. The essays points to the labour movement as having greater potential, although that arena is also full of complications.