Abstrak

Perwujudan tata kelola global tidak selalu berupa institusi supranasional, melainkan dapat berupa transmisi gagasan global di tataran domestik. Gagasan tersebut seringkali dianggap banal tanpa mempertanyakan kepentingan di baliknya. Skripsi ini berusaha menelusuri gagasan public private partnership yang marak dipromosikan sebagai skema pendanaan infrastruktur di Indonesia, terutama periode 2005-2015. Fenomena ini diteliti menggunakan perspektif kritis neogramscian dalam memahami tata kelola global di tingkat domestik dengan fokus aktor utama World Bank. Skripsi ini menemukan bahwa terdapat hegemoni kebijakan neoliberalisme Post-Washington Consensus World Bank dalam manajemen sektor public goods di Indonesia.

.....The concept of global governance is not exclusively embodied as supranational institution global ideas might be transferred to domestic level instead. Yet, it has been neglected and taken for granted despite underlying interest. This thesis scrutinize the infamous public private partnership as Indonesia infrastructure financing scheme in particular period 2005-2015. Applying neogramscian critical perspective of global governance, this thesis aims to apprehend global governance within domestic institutions in particular World Bank as the main actor. This thesis suggest that there is a hegemon of World Banks Post Washington Consensus neoliberalism prescribed policy in Indonesias public goods management sector.
