

Relationship between low-income communities (MBR) needs life worth (KHL) and the poverty line / Yulinda Rosa

Yulinda Rosa, author

Deskripsi Lengkap: <https://lib.ui.ac.id/detail?id=20486718&lokasi=lokal>

Abstrak

ABSTRAK

Low-income communities (MBR) is a housing assistance program target by some regulations that have been enacted. whereas the limit values assigned revenue MBR itself has not been supported with supporting data. MBR is the people who have limited purchasing power, need government assistance to get a decent home. GK (poverty line per capita/ month) issued by Central Bureau of Statistic (BPS) and KHL (decent living needs one single per month) issued by the Ministry of Manpower, the figure is describes the minimal conditions for decent living, and MBR (low-income people) the third figure is describes the minimal conditions for a decent life. GK for a family (4 members of the family) each province generally have a value below and KHL.