

Minat belajar bahasa mandarin di era globalisasi / Darmawan Wijaya

Darmawan Wijaya, author

Deskripsi Lengkap: <https://lib.ui.ac.id/detail?id=20487393&lokasi=lokal>

Abstrak

ABSTRAK

One foreign language that is often encountered in everyday life is English which is an international language. Many people use English in their daily lives to be familiar and fluent in English. But not only English is now an international language, but Mandarin has become an international language as well. Mandarin has already seen its role.

Not only Chinese people need this language, but also all the people. Currently a lot of job vacancies that require the candidate of his career can be Mandarin language. Usually used to communicate with guests from China.

There are so many parents who provide Chinese language for S1 study in China, with the hope that their children can continue their parent's business and hope also to be able to speak Mandarin well in business later. But unfortunately today many people who have not realized the importance of Mandarin. The number of Chinese languages is still far behind the number of English lessons. The number of tutoring places is not as much as English lessons. In Indonesia the new government began to accept Chinese culture in recent years.

By mastering Mandarin we can be recommended to overseas companies are growing, because most large companies that require a career can use mandarin language. So essentially with us mastering Mandarin we get many benefits. In addition, the Chinese language enthusiasts in every year continue and continue to grow.