

Konsentrasi pasar dan pertumbuhan aset terhadap Kinerja keuangan perbankan syariah / Herlina Dwi Rahmawati

Herlina Dwi Rahmawati

Deskripsi Lengkap: <https://lib.ui.ac.id/detail?id=20488480&lokasi=lokal>

Abstrak

ABSTRAK

The research is conducted to examine the effect of market concentration and asset growth on the financial performance of Islamic banking in Indonesia. Data used in this study is obtained from the financial statement of Bank Indonesia publications and report of Islamic banking publication through the website of each bank. The method used in this study is an explanatory method. The method used to explain the effect of the variables studies and the relationship between one variable with other variables. There are 6 syariah bank used as the samples in this research. The data is analyzed with linear regression analysis where previously data tested by testing classical assumption including data normality, heteroscedasticity, multicollinearity and autocorrelation. During the observation period, the study shows that data is normally distributed. The result of the research indicates that the variables of market concentration is positive but has not significant effect on ROA. Variable asset growth is positive and has significant effect on ROA.