<hr>ABSTRACT

A study was conducted to see the effect of changing the charge for room and beds as an effort to improve the Kustati General Islamic Hospital. This is a managerial effort to overcome the financial problem needed for the hospital development/maintenance, for raising staffs income and for improvement of professional ability. This research is a field operational research which is conducted in Kustati General Islamic Hospital. The result of the research showed improvement in hospital income better use of beds.

Since hospital is a complicated organization, the management needs adequate of knowledge and understanding, it is suggested that managing hospital should not be based on speculation, but based on factors which influence how to much patients would buy.

The cost factors and its elements, cost inflation, and cost containment should be use on the basis of patients and should be used on follow up of further improvement of The Kustati General Islamic Hospital.
