Abstrak

The turbulence of reality appears to embrace an open ended future. The tension of that condition creates two distinctive movements: globalization and anti-globalization. Those realities are known as the postmodern condition. Even though the discourse, there is new alternative, which is the metanarrative discourse; the Community Share Agriculture (CSA) has been successful in a small narrative that is similar to the constructive postmodern movement. CSA discourse establishes the movement, which is active and non-violent in their unique way. By discourse scheme, this article argues that in the post modern condition, its principle is not the expert's homology discourse, but the inventor's pralogy discourses. IT refines our understanding to differences and underpins our ability to tolerate the incommensurable.
