Abstrak

The sun and the moon - one cannot exist without the other, like day and night. They are the twin chariot.

But which came first, night or day? How did the sun arrive in the sky? And can we really see a face in the moon?

From the Eskimos to Zambia, from the Aborigines to China, people tell stories about the twin chariots of sun and moon.

These tales ask and answer universal questions. They tell us the secrets of the original travellers of the sky.
