Cambodia The Cambodia Community-Based Ecotourism Network (CCBEN) is the only network of organizations which are involved in community-based ecotourism. CCBEN aims to promote and support this unique style of tourism for the conservation of natural and cultural resources, and for raising the living standards of local communities. Thailand Community based Tourism Institute (CBT-I) was established in 2006, and lies under the umbrella of the Thailand Research Fund (TRF) Regional Office, based in Chiang Mai, Northern Thailand. CBT-I was founded based upon the conviction that ? tourism can be a tool for community development. However, for rural tourism to be sustainable, community members must participate in and benefit from tourism development.? CBT-I is a partnership which unites the knowledge, skills and experience of two Thai organizations which have worked for many years supporting Thai communities to develop small-scale tourism programs, appropriate to their own cultures and environments.
